

Elizabeth Wrigley

Elizabeth Wrigley runs Core Connections, working with clients in urban design and masterplanning. She always takes clients out and about on foot to observe an area. Drawing on her experience at the Civic Trust and as a frequent contributor to research reports for the UK's Countryside Commission, she is only too aware of people's reluctance to walk very far or often. Her forecast however, takes a different beat altogether, and was prompted by listening to that of Geoff Nicholson, Sheffield born author now Hollywood resident whose forecast you can listen to too on Talking Walking.

Notes from Liz Wrigley's 5 year walking forecast for Talking Walking: Recorded over the telephone in October 2013 and published in December 2013 on <http://talkingwalking.net>

To mark the fifth anniversary of Talking Walking, we asked thought leaders to make their 5 year predictions about the state of walking in the fields in which they work and the places where they live. Respondents were asked to call a Skype number to leave their forecast, identifying who they were, what work they were doing that revolved around walking, and what their forecast was for walking in the next five years. We recorded these voice messages and reproduce them here: <http://www.talkingwalking.net/5-year-walking-forecast/>

Links to further information on topics mentioned:

Core Connections <http://www.coreconnections.uk.com/>

Civic Trust <http://www.civictrust.org.uk/>

Countryside Commission http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Countryside_Commission

Dedicated follower of fashion http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Dedicated_Follower_of_Fashion